Helen Abbott, a life-long friend of AAI, humanitarian, and philanthropist, made a bequest to AAI's Foundation, which was converted into a youth leadership scholarship in her memory: the Helen Abbott Community Service Award. The scholarship looks for Arab American students who have a strong interest and commitment to service within their communities. Naturally, we thought of your school because of the high percentage of Arab Americans in your area.

AAI is looking for candidates who are:

1. Currently enrolled in High School; or as an undergraduate in a college or university program
2. U.S. citizens or permanent legal residents that are of Arab descent
3. Have a minimum 3.0 grade point average verified by either an official or unofficial transcript

A flyer that includes all of the requirements of the scholarship as well as the application page can be found on our website at http://www.aaiusa.org/scholarships_aai under the AAIF Youth Leadership Scholarship heading.

The deadline for applications is March 1, 2017. We offer this scholarship every year and the deadline is always March 1st.
